There is an unconfirmed rumor that the Albanian insurgents have captured Durazzo, the capital.

A rebellion has broken out in Ecuador and a plot to assassinate President Plaza has been discovered.

A heavy rain, hail and flakes of snow fell at Munice, Ind., Tuesday, following a 100 degree temperature.

A bill providing for the submission of a woman's suffrage bill was defeated in the Louisiana house 60 to 41.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher was renominated in the Florida primary for the United States Senate by over 10,000 votes.

If both factions of the Mexican fighters can be tamed to eat together out of Uncle Sam's hand, there may be some hope yet of restoring peace.

Because of ill health, Rush C. Watkins has resigned as a member of the Louisville Board of Public Safety and Charles L. Taylor has been appointed to succeed him.

Congressman W. S. Hammond won the Democratic nomination for Governor at Minnesota's recent State-wide primary election by a plurality of 800 votes over Daniel W. Lawler.

Mun Wilson has gone to Frankfort to protest against having his name left off the primary ballot as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second district. His petition was defective.

Judge T. S. Watson, of Carlisle, is dead and Gov. McCreary has to decide at once which of a dozen candidates he will appoint. Sometimes the distribution of patronage is a positive disadvantage.

The engagement of the Redpath Chautauqua was finished here Tuesday night and R. A. Alford, the manager, folded his tents and silently stole away, leaving no regrets behind him. Hopkinsville was unfortunate this year in the character of manager sent to conduct the Chautauqua. Following the genial and gentlemanly Dr. Ellis of last year, the surly knocker, R. A. Alford, of this year, was a long step downward. The Kentuckian, in a spirit of fair dealing with the visitors, withheld criticism while the program was in progress, but now that the Chautauqua has gone, it is due to the general management that the press should pass judgment upon Mr. Alford. To begin with, he and other speakers went out of their way to criticize the program because the Sabbath was kept sacred. This was none of Mr. Alford's business. He was sent here to carry out a contract, the terms of which were very explicit. To start a discussion on morals, in which he took the lower side, and to make of himself a self-appointed censor of the ministry and an officious knocker on Hopkinsville, was something entirely outside of his duties. It advertised the fact that Mr. Alford was the wrong man to send to Hopkinsville. The people here have no use for a knocker and the moment he got out his hammer he became an unpopular meddler in Hopkinsville's civic and religious affairs. The real character of the man was further shown Tuesday night when he let the engagement merely peter out, without a word of thanks to a community that had given a courteous hearing and a profitable patronage to an organization whose management was mercenary and to some extent ungentlemanly. Heretofore the gentlemen in charge have thanked the public for the interest and encouragement and have had something pleasant to say about the people and the city. Mr. Alford merely sneaked behind a lowered curtain and showed a cloven foot, after having killed the Chautauqua business in Hopkinsville as dead as Hector, at least while it is hampered in its local management by such men as Mr. Alford.

SUPREME COURT QUIT

Adjourned Monday Until October After Important Decisions.

FARMERS CAN'T POOL CROPS.

Two Grandfather Clause Laws Not Passed Upon This Term.

Washington D. C. June 24th.—The Kentucky statute making it legal for farmers to pool their tobacco was annulled as unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. The court decided the Interstate Commerce Commission, the California oil land grant case, whereby the transcontinental railways get title to $700,000,000 worth of lands; the pipe line case, in which the pipe lines of the Standard Oil Company are held to be common carriers and subject to regulation, and many other important cases were disposed of. The court adjourned until October.

Just fourteen cases in which arguments had been made were left undecided. These include the cases involving the constitutionality of the "grandfather clauses" limiting the right of the negroes to vote in Oklahoma and Annapolis, Md., the Mid-West oil land case involving the validity of President Taft's withdrawal of oil lands from entry; the Nashville grain reshaping case, and the Henry case, involving the right of Congress to compel individuals to testify before investigating committees.

The court during the term disposed of more cases than in any year since 1890. Five hundred and ninety-one decisions were handed down.

NEARING THE END

Circuit Court Is Winding Up Its June Term--Several Sentenced.

Judge Hanbury on Tuesday morning passed sentence on four negroes convicted at this term and given penitentiary sentences. Burton Smith, life imprisonment; Ed Williams, one to five years; John Smith, one to five years; Dean Henry Merriweather, three to five years. Sheriff Smith, or some his deputies, will take the prisoners to Eddyville in a day or two to begin their terms.

Arthur Gray, col., convicted of grand larceny, has filed a motion for a new trial and has not been sentenced yet.

The second trial of the damage suit of Arthur McCrae's administratrix against the L. & N. Railroad Co., resulted in a hung jury and the jury was dismissed Tuesday afternoon. It is said to have stood 8 for the defendant and 4 for the plaintiff, being one short of a verdict for the defendant. McCrae was killed by a passenger train at the depot while getting on or off the steps, being in the train shed in the capacity of station baggage porter at the station. Subsequently his widow, the plaintiff, settled for $315 and later repudiated the settlement and brought suit for $15,000. At a former trial the plaintiff was awarded $100 damages and a new trial was granted and this was the retrial of the case.

Seventeen Liable.

Seventeen railway companies which constitute trans-continental freight routes are liable under the decision of the United States supreme court in the so-called intermountain cases for millions in reparation on shipments made since the institution of the cases. The precise amount involved in claims already filed with the interstate commerce commission approximates $12,000,000.

BAD BREAK IN PRICES

Bears Succeed In Forcing The Quotations Down To Lowest Point of Year.

LOCAL PRICE IS 72 CENTS.

Wheat Crop Coming In Freely And All Grading First Class No. 2.

Chicago, June 24.—Wheat pit conditions Tuesday were the most bearish since the harvest began. Active options broke sharply under 80¢ a bushel and there was a heavy close with the market showing a net decline of 1 @ 1¢ to 1@ 1¢. Corn wound up at 1@ 8¢ to 1@ 8¢ rise, oats unchanged to 1@ 1¢ lower and provisions the same as last night to 1¢ down.

Official estimates that the Kansas yield of wheat this season would reach the remarkable aggregate of 180,000,000 bushels were what gave prices the hardest blow. Liberal acceptances on bids from here to the country intensified the weakness of the market and quickly nullified the effect of stronger Liverpool cables.

Prices seem to have no power to rally, big export sales and a decrease of more than 10,000,000 bushels in world stocks being virtually ignored. Wet weather Southwest was also dismissed summarily as not especially serious up to date. On the other hand, the bulls were further discouraged by the outlook for the spring crop being regarded as almost perfect except in Southern Minnesota, where there were complaints of too much rain.

Improved shipping demand as well as the addition of Oklahoma to the drouth area tended to make corn prices climb.

There were no rural offerings to speak of and bears got but little comfort from a return of fine weather in Argentina. Oats felt the effect of the wheat weakness, but were partly sustained by the influence of the corn bulge.

The Local Market.

The opening price of 75 cents on the local market dropped yesterday to 72 cents. New wheat is coming in freely and the crop is grading strictly number two. The threshing is progressing with ideal conditions prevailing and rapid headway is being made in getting the crop into sacks. Some few farmers are complaining of disappointing yields and heavy crops of straw, but these reports are exceptionally. The crop is in all respects a record-breaker and the declining price is the one thing to keep the farmer's cup of joy from overflowing.

MEETING OF H. B. M. A.

Regular Semi-Monthly Meeting Will Be Held To-morrow Night.

The regular meeting of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association will be held to-morrow night and the membership is urged to attend, as some important business, is to come up.

Secretary Bleich is suffering with an abscess on his wisdom tooth this week and is hardly able to be about.

Speer Not Impeached.

The committee regrets its inability to either recommend a complete acquittal of Judge Speer of all culpability so far as these charges are concerned on the one hand, or an impeachment, on the other hand. This was the conclusion submitted to the House Judiciary Committee by the special sub-committee that for months has been investigating charges of official misconduct filed against Emory Speer, of Macon, Federal Judge for the Southern district of Georgia.

TO DIE IN CHAIR HE HELPED BUILD

Robert Collier Smiles and Says He Is "Happy As a Bird."

Evansville, Ind., June 22.—Robert Collier, a negro, sentenced to death here last week for the murder of Patrolman John Cain, will go to his death Friday, October 16, in the electric chair he helped to install at Michigan City.

Collier was released from the Michigan City prison last February when he was serving a sentence for assault and battery with intent to kill. He was suffering with tuberculosis and was sent home to die. One of his last acts at the penitentiary was helping to construct the death chair.

Collier shows no sign of fear at his approaching death.

"Yes sir," he smiled, in his cell in the county jail. "I helped build the chair and I was the first man to sit in it after it was completed. Now I'm going to spend my last moment in it. I am going to the chair happy as a bird."

CAMDEN'S STATEMENT

Kentucky Senator Praised By Wilson For Business Attitude.

Washington, June 22.—In his statement about business conditions, Senator Camden "hit the nail squarely on the head." President Wilson told the Kentuckian so in those words when the Senator called at the White House to-day. He said his views coincided with those of Senator Camden to the effect that Congress should not adjourn without passing the trust programme and relieving business of its present uncertainty as to what the regulations will be.

"I believe that firmly," said Mr. Camden as he left the White House.

"The only way to clear up the present suspense is to pass these trust bills and permit business to make its future plans in full knowledge. At present the programme hangs like the sword of Damocles, and naturally business men are timid."

Senator Camden was accompanied to the White House by his secretary, W. O. Davis. They saw the President for a few minutes and were then introduced to Secretary Tumulty, who also complimented the Senator on his statement.

FRANKLIN COUNTY JOINS NEIGHBORS

Will Attempt to Vote Out Liquor at The September Election.

Lexington, Ky., June 24.—Announcement was made here by Mrs. Julia Gunn, secretary-treasurer of the State W. C. T. U., that Franklin county has joined other counties in the Seventh district in the local option crusade, and, with Fayette, Scott, Bourbon, Clark, Montgomery, Anderson and Shelby, will hold an election September 28.

Mrs. Gunn and other members of the committee were in Frankfort last night to confer with Judge E. C. O'Rear, who has been retained as chief counsel for the State W. C. T. U. and who is now busy preparing legal forms for obtaining signatures and calling an election. The petitions will be distributed in the next few days.

Five Times a Blushing Bride.

A Louisville woman this week married her fifth husband. She was four times a widow—twice sord and twice widower.

CHAUTAUQUA TENTS FOLDED

And The Week's Engagement Came To a Close Tuesday Night.

FLOWERS IN GOOD LECTURE.

And Two Musical Concerts Was Program of The Final Day.

The closing entertainments of the Redpath Chautauqua were held Tuesday afternoon and night.

The concert of the Kellogg-Haines Singing Party in the afternoon preceded the lecture by Montaville Flowers on "Color Line and Picket Guard," dealing with the Japanese question.

At night there was another concert by the Kellogg-Haines quartette. The music was operatic and was enjoyed by a generous audience until about ten o'clock, when the engagement came to an end without any further formalities.

MOVING DAY FOR THE SICK

Infirmary Patients To Be Transferred To Hospital Not Later Than Tuesday.

The house-cleaners began work in the Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital yesterday morning under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Williams, the superintendent, and the actual moving will be begun Monday, when the equipment of the Infirmary on Clay street will be transferred to the new Hospital.

The Infirmary is now crowded with patients, there being 12 in the Infirmary this week, about all there is room for.

No severe surgical cases can be taken at the old institution, that is those whose condition would prevent removal. The four persons operated upon last week are getting along well enough to be moved.

Mr. and Mrs. Lander Meacham, typhoid fever patients, are now convalescent and will leave the Infirmary in a few days.

The entire executive force of the Infirmary will be retained at the Hospital and there will be no interruption in the operations. The transfer is expected to be made without a hitch of any kind.

The sewage connections are yet to be made. This is the only thing in the way now, outside of the general cleaning necessary in and out of the new building.

NICHOLASVILLE IS NOW DRY

All The Saloons In The Jessamine County Capital Closed.

Nicholasville, Ky., June 24.—Judge E. B. Hoover, representing the dry forces of Jessamine county, filed a mandate in court taking effect Monday night, which closed all the saloons in Nicholasville.

This is the end of a long drawn out fight between the wet and dry forces of this county.

The wet forces filed a petition before the Court of Appeals at Frankfort last week, asking for a new hearing of the case, but it was promptly turned down by the court.

Carranza Delegates.

No formal answer to the United States invitation to the Constitutionalists for an informal conference over the Mexican peace plans is expected until Carranza's agents arrive. Messrs. Calderon, Breceda and Espinoza are enroute with Carranza.

Two boys playing with a gun were both winged by the same accidental discharge Monday afternoon. Henry Hayes, aged 16, and Herbert Hayes, aged 17, were the boys, one a son of Fred Hayes and the other a son of Tom Hayes. They live near the State Hospital and were loading a small calibre rifle when it went off. Henry's hand was hit and Fred's leg caught the bullet, making a flesh wound near the knee. He is laid up but the wound is not serious. The other boy's injury is slight.

PROTOCOLS TO BE SIGNED

All Differences Covered Except Personnel of New Provisional Government.

UP TO FACTIONS THEN

Government United States Will Recognize Only Thing Lacking For Peace.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 24.—Plans were completed yesterday by the South American mediators for the signing within a day or two of all protocols in the peace plan which relate to international differences between the United States and Mexico, except the plank giving the composition and personnel of the new provisional government. The mediators intend to have the entire peace plan ready so that at the informal conferences the Huerta and constitutional delegates may select a provisional president and cabinet officers. Before these conferences are held the work of the mediators and the American delegates virtually will be finished. Representatives of the two Mexican factions then will assume the responsibility of making over the peace program.

Reports from New Orleans quoting Carranza's private secretary as saying the commission en route to Washington would not participate in informal negotiations with the Huerta delegates, did not disturb the mediation colony. The expressions accredited to men who recently left General Carranza's headquarters were construed to be a part of the desire not to disclose the purposes of their mission prior to their arrival here.

Whether the delegates now coming represent the personal interests of Carranza is not known but the mediators have good reason to believe General Villa is in sympathy with efforts of the United States to settle Mexican embroilment through diplomatic channels and that the delegates en route will have Villa's approval.

The signing of the protocols settling the international dispute on condition that a provisional government be established which the United States can recognize, is expected to serve as an incentive to the two Mexican factions to agree on personnel in a few days.

The entire executive force of the Infirmary will be retained at the Hospital and there will be no interruption in the operations. The transfer is expected to be made without a hitch of any kind.

The sewage connections are yet to be made. This is the only thing in the way now, outside of the general cleaning necessary in and out of the new building.

These protocols will be published, perhaps Thursday of this week. One will set forth that within a fixed period after the United States recognizes the new government American forces shall be withdrawn from Vera Cruz and hostilities shall be declared suspended between the United States and Mexico. Another will include a declaration by the United States that it desires no indemnity for expenditures resulting from the seizure of Vera Cruz, but asks only the establishment of a provisional government that can guarantee international as well as national obligations.

The Supreme Court has annulled

Through the invitation of the United States government and the good offices of the three South American mediators, representatives of the two warring factions in Mexico—the constitutionalists and the Huerta government—soon will be brought face to face in an informal conference, distinct from the mediation proceedings.
To save Mexico from further spoliation and possibility of a foreign war, the constitutionalists apparently have been prevailed on to meet their countrymen—the Huerta delegates—in a conference whose object shall be the ending of the Mexican civil strife. The belief is general that this plan stands an excellent chance of being carried to success if recent conferences between Villa and Carranza are satisfactorily composed to guarantee that the constitutionalist delegation may work without embarrassment. Arrangements

FAMILY FRUIT GARDEN

HAVE A FEW SELECTED VARIETIES AND GIVE PROPER CARE.

Dwarfs Are Excellent, as They Require Less Room Than Standards, and Come into Bearing the Third or Fourth Year.

By E. KNEELAND. Copyright, 1914.)
Fruit for the family table through the growing season and a surplus to sell need not mean a large orchard, but only a few well selected varieties properly cared for. First, then, for a small list of fruits, and the dwarfs and half dwarfs are excellent, as they require less room than the standards and come into bearing the third or fourth year and are easily pruned and sprayed. The trees should be set eight feet apart, and eight trees will provide fruit from June to November. The variety will depend on the latitude and altitude. The United States government's "Farmer's Bulletin No. 208" gives a very complete list.

What to Plant.

Four sweet cherry trees and one sour one will supply enough fruit for the table and also for pies. The following are recommended: Coe's Transparent (June), Downer's Late (July) Windsor (July) and a Dwarf Montmorency (June) for cooking. Eight pears should be ample and may all be of the dwarf type, such as two Bartletts (August and September), Clapp's Favorite (August and September), Louise Bonne de Jersey (September), Sickel (September), Howell (September), Beurre d'Anjou (October), Vicar of Winkfield (winter).

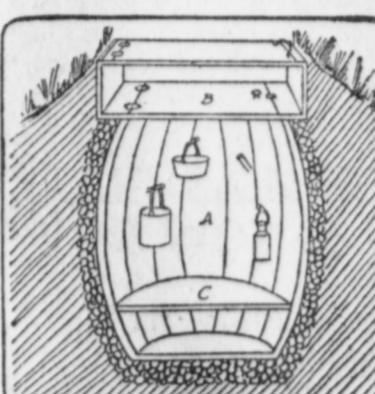

Plums may be grown in the poultry yard and the garden space saved for other fruit. Grapes are always welcome, and one vine of each of the following will provide a good supply: Dutchess, Moore's Early Green Mountain (white), Concord, Niagara, Delaware. For currant bushes try eight Fay's Prolific. There are endless varieties of raspberries, but ten Herberts, ten Cuthberts and ten St. Georges are recommended; for blackberries, ten Erie, ten Snyders and ten Wilson's Early. Gooseberries are as easy to grow as currants, and five Industry and five Smith's Improved will provide a good supply.

Prepare the land thoroughly, provide plenty of manure to start things and keep the soil cultivated under the trees and bushes. Set the standard trees 35 feet apart, the dwarfs eight feet, the fruit bushes six feet, and the canes three feet. Fruit trees, bushes, etc., live many years, but their value depends upon their vigor, shape and ancestry, so be sure to buy only from a reliable dealer or nurseryman and when satisfied as to his standing, do not let the price govern the purchase. The saving of a few dollars may often result in a much greater loss later. Finally draw a rough plan of the garden, marking where each tree, bush, etc., is to go, then set them with a line and measure according to the nurseryman's directions.

KEEP DAIRY PRODUCTS FRESH

Large Barrel Sunk in Ground Will Afford Convenient and Serviceable Place for Summer.

A very convenient and serviceable place to keep dairy products may be made by sinking a large barrel in the ground. A shady spot should be chosen, writes G. C. Amb of Beatrice, Neb., in Missouri Valley Farmer. Fill in around the barrel with small stones, gravel and sand, and dampen. Put a box over the barrel and back up with solid earth, preferably clay. This drains off the water when it rains and also puts the barrel further down, which tends to make it cooler. Make a tight lid for the top of the barrel, and a strong lid for the outer covering of box. Fit the box as near airtight as possible. Sprinkle a little dampened sand over the bottom of the barrel and the little cellar is finished. Pails of cream, milk and butter may be hung from nails on the sides of the barrel. Air the barrel out occasionally to prevent odors from collecting.

Keeping the Butter Fresh.

Weed Seeds.

In order to have soil that is comparatively free from weed seeds many gardeners begin a year in advance of planting to prepare the soil. If onions are to be planted next year manure is applied freely this year for a cultivated crop such as corn or potatoes and no weeds are permitted to go to seed.

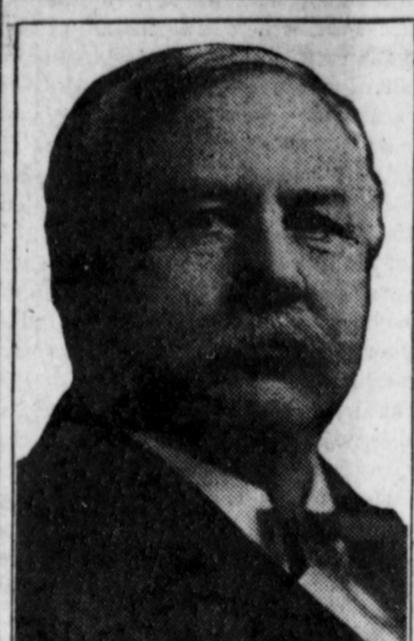

Sow Bugs.

Sow bugs are 14-legged animals and feed upon decayed vegetation. They sometimes attack growing plants. To kill them, slice potatoes, dust with Paris green and lay in places frequented by the bugs.

OFFICE 366.

THE GOVERNOR
WILL ATTENDTHE STATE'S CHIEF EXECUTIVE WILL REVIEW GORGEOUS PARADE.

Evansville, Ind.
Mayor Benjamin Bosse has been advised by Governor S. M. Ralston, that if nothing develops to prevent his doing so he and his staff will review the big Turnfest-German Day parade here on Monday, June 29th. It is confidently predicted by members of the executive committee, having in charge the details of this year's celebration, that all attendance records will be broken. The attractions are more numerous and of higher order than ever before. The street parade will be the best seen in years outside of New Orleans and St. Louis.

GOV. SAMUEL M. RALSTON.
Will Review Evansville Parade.

On the same day of the parade, which will be the last of three days of continuous festivities, an immense public picnic will be given at beautiful Oak Summit Park in the suburbs of the city. It is being planned to have some orator of national reputation address those assembled at this picnic. It is possible Gov. Ralston may consent to do this.

That same night the water festival on the Ohio River will be viewed by a record crowd. Magnificent fire works display and living picture groups posed by the different Turner societies under an effective arrangement of multi-colored lights, will terminate the celebration.

This year's celebration is on a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted, and is sure to prove an event long to be remembered. Turner organizations from several of the larger cities will attend in a body and compete for prizes. Many thousands of visitors are expected from the surrounding territory.

EVANSVILLE'S BIG EVENT

Success of Turnfest-German Day Celebration Assured.

Evansville, Ind.

The prompt and liberal manner in which the merchants and manufacturers of this city have responded to the call of the executive committee makes it secure that this year's three-day festival will be highly successful.

It is the first time the allied German societies of this vicinity and the Turners of the German Gymnastic Association have combined their celebrations. Heretofore each was given at a different season of the year and were also big successes when thus given separately. Now that the two events are combined into a three-day Turnfest-German Day festival it is sure to prove the biggest drawing card and all round success in the history of this city.

It has been planned to have Gov. Ralston attend as guest of honor and review the great street parade on Monday, June 29th. If nothing develops to prevent, the chief executive will be accompanied by his full staff. The city will be in gala attire that day, particularly on the line of march.

Practically every business house has agreed to decorate their places profusely. Sufficient liberal donations have been made to assure the financial success of the undertaking.

Turner societies from Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Ft. Wayne and some other smaller places have announced their intention of coming to compete for the athletic medals and mass drill prizes. These events will prove well worth traveling many miles to see.

It has been planned not to have a dull moment during the whole three days. Beginning Saturday morning, June 27th, with the athletic field day and concluding Monday night with the great fire works exhibition on barges on the Ohio River opposite the city, everything will move rapidly and systematically. The city authorities are preparing to handle many thousands of visitors. Mayor Bosse, president of the executive committee, is jubilant over the prospects. Others of the committee are equally as sanguine of success.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McEvy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists. King Boosts Wages.

During their recent stay at Sandringham King George and Queen Mary gave much attention to the subject of the wages paid to workmen on the estate, and in view of the increased cost of living it was decided that an all-round increase of pay should be given not only to the men who may be described as agricultural laborers, but to woodmen, roadmen, and others. The number of men affected is about three hundred. Simultaneously with the increase of wages it is arranged that in all cases in which the nature of the employment permits, work shall cease at one o'clock on Saturdays, instead of three o'clock, as heretofore.

Failure of Artificial Food.

That it is possible to live on artificial food, or at least on the concentrated extracts of certain staples, is a common belief, and it has even been predicted that some day our diet will consist of tabloid food. One might live for short time in that unsatisfactory way, but recent investigation of diseases like beri-beri, scurvy and pellagra, which are almost certainly caused by a deficiency in the diet, prove that such a life would be one of disease and could not last long.

PARTY LOST IN CAVE FINALLY RESCUED.

Franklin, Ky., June 22.—Some excitement was occasioned here this morning when it was ascertained that members of a party who went to spend Sunday in Hoy's cave had not returned home.

Those composing the party were: Mrs. Lillian Caster, her son, Carl Caster, and their guests, Misses Gladys and Cornelia Barry, of Portland, Tenn. They entered the cave, which is situated one mile north of Franklin, on the Louisville & Nashville turnpike, about 10 o'clock in the morning, expecting to come out in the afternoon.

This morning neighbors discovered no one had returned to the Caster home in the night, and a search was immediately instituted at the cave, led by John Boaz, who, from childhood, has lived within sight of the mouth of the cave and has been familiar with its many intricate passages and numerous dangerous pits.

The party was found within three or four hundred yards of the entrance. They were all together, sitting in the mud, where they had fallen when their lights went out. They had no matches.

Their clothing was wet and they were almost frantic from cold and fright, having experienced one chill after another. They had no idea of the time when found. The party was rushed to town, and the Misses Barry were able to return to their home at Portland, twelve miles distant, this morning.

This is a similar experience several other small parties have known when visiting this cave without a competent guide, and when found after a ten or twelve-hour stay in the cave would be huddled together waiting for death.

Mr. J. E. Moseley is back from a swing around the circle with Mr. Stanley in the Bluegrass counties. He attended his speaking appointments in Harrison and Robertson counties and was in Louisville a day or two. The idea that Stanley would not stay in the race is no longer tenable and the policy of his opponent, Mr. Beckham, in claiming everything in sight is no longer fooling the public. Stanley is not only in the race to stay, Mr. Moseley says, but to win and the tide is turning stronger in his direction every day. Stanley himself is full of fight and confidence and his friends are sending in nothing but cheering news from all over the State.

EASIER JOB FOR POLICEMAN

Seven Officers Required to Put Irishman Behind Bars, But One Could Easily Release Him.

Here is one that was told by Congressman Edward W. Pou of North Carolina at a recent banquet when the topic switched to the inevitable Pat.

The esteemed Patrick, so related the congressman, went to the depot to meet a relative that he hadn't seen for several years, and the result was great happiness.

Pat being muscular, the police force had much trouble in convincing him that he ought to be the guest of the city, but finally he was placed in the municipal rest.

"Shure, judge," remarked Pat, when he was haled before the magistrate the next morning, "if yez will be so kind as to forget it O'll do as much for yezelf sometime."

"Let me see," reflectively responded the magistrate. "You are the man who gave the officers so much trouble. I understand it took seven of them to lock you up."

"Yea, yer honor," innocently admitted Pat, "but it would taken only wan to let me out."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

"Certainly," replied the poet, solemnly. "She has married and settled down, you know."

In the living rooms attached, there have been 12 to 15 non-resident pupils who boarded with Miss West. The school will close with commencement exercises Friday night, July 3 and an ice cream supper will be held next Saturday night, June 27.

The graduating class will consist of five, three boys and two girls. Miss West's school is known as "The New Idea Consolidated Graded and High School."

Tobacco Pool Act

Unconstitutional

Washington, June 22.—The Kentucky statute, making it legal for farmers to pool their tobacco, was today annulled as unconstitutional by the supreme court.

The court held that the conviction of Patrick Collins, a farmer of Mason county, Kentucky, for selling his tobacco to an outsider after agreeing to pool with the Burley Tobacco society, a tobacco growers' organization, was invalid. Collins had been fined $150.

The conviction of Thomas Malone, another Kentucky tobacco grower, also was set aside.

In substance, the court found that as a result of the passage of the tobacco pooling act, the Kentucky state courts held that the trust law of the state was that any combination was legal that did not enhance or depress prices above or below real value.

The court held it was beyond human ingenuity to determine what was "real value" of an article under imaginary conditions.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, the result is deafness. When the inflammation can be taken out, and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the nose, sinuses, and throat.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Lippincott's For July.

When the midsummer heat is too intense for physical exertion, or when one is going on a long journey, reading is the pastime which naturally appeals to one for whiling away the time pleasantly and profitably. In most cases, it is fiction that is desired—interesting fiction, not too deep or highbrowish, but with lots of action and a plentiful seasoning of sentiment. Lippincott's for July offers an especially attractive table of contents of this kind. The complete novel is "Northborough Cross," by L. Cope Cornford, a distinguished British author. This is a "buried treasure" story of a new type. The scenes are laid in a staid English village—that is, it was staid before the incidents narrated in the story began to happen. Extraordinary character-drawing and remarkable local color characterize the story, and the plot is commendably new.

Owen Oliver contributes a vivid short-story entitled "The Wisdom of Foley." Thomas Grant Soringer's offering is "Babes in the Woods"—the "woods" in this instance being the great city of New York, and the "babes" a youth and a girl who are alone and stranded there. "That Blooming Azalea," by Agnes Edwards, has a subtly humorous touch and may help to solve a vexing problem that is bothering more than one woman. "A Criminal Execution," by Frances James MacBeath is tragic without being grawsmere or horrible. "Bum O'Reilly, Philanthropist," by Lucy Copinger, is a funny yarn about a tough schoolboy and his teacher, who dispays a distinctly feminine trait.

Among the special articles we find "The 'Movies' in Central America," by Caroline Lockhart, author of "The full of the Moor." "The Funny Side of Married Life," by Christine Terhune Herrick, may lighten the burdens of many people who are married, and serve as a warning to those who are not.

The Jim Crow Car Law.

A Christian county jury imposed a fine of $500 on a railroad company for violating the provisions of the so-called Jim Crow car act. The prosecution was based on the charge—which seems to have been substantiated—that the road had not provided suitable accommodations for negro passengers.

The separate coach law requires that the accommodations for negroes shall be equal to those provided for the whites.

In many instances the railroads have made no particular effort to comply with this provision. They have separated the white and colored passengers, usually by partitioning off a part of a coach and reserving it for the use of the negroes. Sometimes the accommodations are fairly good and sometimes they are not. As a general rule it may be said they are not equal to those supplied for white passengers.

If the law is to be enforced literally it puts the railroads up against a serious proposition. The number of negro travelers is small as compared with the number of white travelers. If the railroads were compelled actually to supply separate coaches they would be having practically empty cars for the greater portion of the time. As the case stands the negroes do not get equal accommodations except on the colored excursions, which are numerous at this season of the year and which probably represent the bulk of the negro travel all the year round.

The simple truth of the matter is

The July Wide World Magazine.

One of the most interesting articles in the July Wide World is entitled "Uncle Sam's Floating Court," by Walter Noble Burns, who describes and illustrates the manner in which the United States Government administers justice among the Eskimos, whalers, and the scattered white population of the far northern Alaska coast, Behring Sea, and the Arctic. Many strange cases are brought to the judges and the tasks they are called upon to perform are varied, amusing and sometimes tragic. "Pussy-Foot of Oklahoma" deals with William E. Johnson, late head of the Bureau of the United States Indian Service, and his successful efforts to "smash" the outlaws of Oklahoma who were selling vile spirits to the Indians and generally defying the law. In "Advertising for a Wife," Lucius L. Wittich, of Joplin, Mo., describes how Colonel Worth, a millionaire mine-owner of Joplin, tried this experiment and thereby narrowly escaped a horrible death. Other articles deal with "Picture-Hunting in Hungary," "My Experiences in Western Papua," "A Coyote Round-Sp." "East Africa as I Saw It," "Our Battle with the Head-Hunters," and many other subjects of world wide interest.

The July Strand Magazine.

The July Strand contains a number of interesting articles, one of the best being a well-illustrated account of how the American Cup defenders are built. George R. Sims, the well-known dramatist, writes on "Clever Detective Feats," giving many interesting cases which have happened within the last twenty or thirty years. "The Latest Development in the Teaching of the Blind" is another interesting article dealing with a subject which is attracting a great deal of well-deserved attention at the present time. In this article the curious fact is stated that people blind from their birth have no conception of the actual sizes of animals and people. One boy, for instance, who recovered his sight, expressed the greatest terror at the immensity of his parents. "Heroines of the Film" will be appreciated by all admirers of moving-picture actresses.

A generous amount of fiction by well-known writers may also be found in this month's issue of The Strand.

To Keep Ice.

When it is desirable to keep ice in the sickroom, this will be found a very good plan: Get a large, wide-mouthed jar, tie a piece of coarse flannel over it, making it loose and bag-like in the center. Now put the ice in this bag and cover it with another piece of flannel, folded three or four times. It will keep better this way than by any other method. When you require to break it, use a coarse darning needle or a fine knitting needle, giving it a gentle tap with a hammer.

Cures Old Sores, Other Remedies Won't Cure.
The worst cases, no matter of how long standing, cures pain and heals at the same time. 25c, 50c, $1.00.

TRAINING A BUMP

By JOHN PHILIP ORTM.

"He's fooling!"

"No, he's in trouble!"

"He's down again!"

"Where are the life-savers?"

It wasn't at the seashore, but at a quiet inland lake fronting a big summer hotel. There were forty or fifty guests in bathing when the shouts and struggles of a young man who had been too venturesome suddenly attracted attention.

Of the people in the water not more than half could swim. Of the half that could every one hesitated.

There is more peril in seeking to rescue a drowning man than rushing into a burning building. A drowning man grapples you. He pulls you down. And, too, the alarm always comes so suddenly that its nature is not comprehended for a moment.

The lookers-on were screaming and shouting, but no one in the water going to the rescue. Then a girl who had just donned her bathing suit came running along the beach and plunged in and swam for the sinking man. She went through the water like a power boat and the watchers called to each other:

"That's the Waverly girl. She will save him."

When she had brought the man into shallower water there was help enough extended, and his unconscious body was soon at the hotel and under the care of the doctors.

The Waverly girl was cheered, but she seemed rather more disgusted than pleased. She had saved the life of Alger Montague, and Alger was the son of his widowed mother and a pet.

He was twenty-three years old; he had "that tired feeling." He was also bored with life. He went about with a weary air and announced that there were so many "gurls" it gave him a pain!

Miss Beatrice Waverly was also at the hotel. Her mother was also a widow. An introduction had come about, but there was one who wished it hadn't. That one was young Alger.

Miss Beatrice sized him up at once. She had no use for his kind. Half a day after the introduction he found her in a shady nook reading a book.

"Ah, there, Miss Waverly, won't you throw aside your book and entertain a fellah?"

"I think I am more interested in the book!" was the freezing reply.

"But what's a fellah to do, ye know?"

"You might sit on the shore of the lake and kick pebbles!"

"Some fellahs would take that as a cut," he said, trying to laugh, "but I shan't. I fawny that we are going to like each other, doncher know!"

"No, I don't know any such thing!" she retorted, and she closed the book and left him.

"All a bluff!" he chuckled, as he looked after her. "She just wants me to think she's coy. Oh, the gurls—the gurls!"

And it was this young man's life that Miss Beatrice had saved. It wouldn't have come about but for his playing the fool with another young lady. He had boasted to her that he could swim across the lake, and when asked to make his word good he had paddled out beyond the safety line and got a cramp and been brought ashore almost dead.

"You don't like him," said Mrs. Waverly to her daughter, "but let him down easy."

"He's a young man that needs taking down a few pegs!" answered Beatrice. "But let some one else do it. If he's spoiled it's his mother's fault, but I'm not going to tell her so."

Of course, after the life-saving came the thanks. Miss Beatrice dodged the saved young man, because she had an object in view.

In a day or two, however, she let him "discover" her half a mile from the hotel and his mother. She was skipping clamshells on the surface of the water when he came running up with extended hand.

"Bai George, but doncher know I've been looking everywhere for you!"

"No, I didn't know it," she replied.

"It was fierce of you—weally it was. How did you ever come to do it?"

"Because I didn't know who it was!"

"Oh, you cawn't make me believe that—you weally cawn't!"

"If I had known it was you I wouldn't have moved hand or foot!"

"Lord bless me!"

"Mr. Montague, sit down here a moment, will you? Now, then, what part of England were you born in?"

"Why, me deah gurl—!"

"That's enough of that!"

"But I wasn't born in England at all."

"But why do you ape the ways of Englishmen?"

"Lord bless me, but—"

"Give me a plain answer."

"Well, the fellahs at my club do it, and—"

"And so you play the brainless fool because some one else does!"

"Weally, Miss—I—I—"

"Are you trying to pronounce the word 'really'?"

Mr. Montague was flushing painfully and digging his toe into the sand.

"What is the meaning of 'domcher knaw'?"

Silence.

"Is a 'fellah' a fellow or a fool?"

Sandy silence.

"And what is a 'gurl,' please? I never came across the word in the dictionary."

"Miss Beatrice, I—I can't make you out!" mumbled Alger.

"Miss Waverly, if you please. It's easy enough to make me out. I saved a young man's life the other day. I am trying to ascertain if it was worth the effort."

"I hope so."

"Perhaps it was, but what do I find you? Treated as a big baby by your mother; no knowledge of business, no profession, no idea of the value of money. You are merely hanging about and playing the fool."

"I suppose you flatter yourself that all the 'gurlas,' as you call them, are struck on you. All the brainless ones may be. If you and your mother plan a marriage for you look for a brainless girl."

"We may meet again a year or so later, and I shall be interested to know whether I ought to have saved your life or let it go to the fishes. If you have an engagement elsewhere, Mr. Montague—"

He had, and he got up and lifted his hat and walked off. Miss Beatrice saw him no more that day, and in the evening his mother said to her:

"Do you know that I am very much alarmed about dear Alger?"

"What seems to be the matter with him?"

"He's been lying on the divan all the afternoon, and not sleeping, either. When I ask what ails him he says he's thinking. Doesn't it bring on brain fever to think?"

"It might if one thought too hard!"

"I may get a doctor for him in the morning. If I should lose the dear boy by death I know I should feel inclined to commit suicide."

She and Alger went away next day, and he forgot to bid Miss Beatrice a fond farewell. In fact, he appeared to be so deeply thinking that he stepped on a fat woman's foot and did not apologize until he was 23 miles away.

A year and a half later it was winter, and Miss Beatrice Waverly was visiting a girl friend whose family had an all-the-year-round house in the country. In enjoying a skate on a pond it was Miss Beatrice who broke through the ice, and it was the other one that screamed for help.

It was Miss Beatrice, however, who recognized the foremost of three young men who answered the screams. She was clinging to the broken edges and benumbed by the cold, but as she was seized by two strong arms and pulled out she had spirit enough left to say:

"Weally, Mr. Montague, doncher know that I am glad to see you?"

GARDEN WORK FOR SEEDTIME

Many Insects Attack and Injure Potatoes, Cabbage, Cucumbers, Radishes and Other Plants.

(By FRANK H. SWEET.)

Watch out for these. The potato bug attacks potatoes, egg plants and tomatoes. Use paris green and other arsenic poisons.

The cabbage worm attacks cabbage, cauliflower and turnips. Hand picking is best in small gardens.

Wire worm attacks potatoes, corn and some seeds. Fall turning of the soil will expose and kill them.

The cutworm attacks small plants of cabbage, beans, corn, tomatoes, etc. In small gardens dig around the plant which has been cut off. The worm may be found in the soil and killed, or the transplanted plants may be wrapped with a cylinder of tough paper reaching one inch below ground and three inches above.

The striped cucumber beetles attack squashes, cucumbers and melons and the newly hatched worms do damage to corn roots. Sow extra seed. Dust the stems and leaves with air-slaked lime after every rain.

The flea beetle attacks radishes, tomatoes, cabbage, turnips, etc., when the plants are young. Keep the plants dusted with air-slaked lime or plaster, mixed with a little paris green, or similar poison.

Plant lice or aphids, green and dark-colored, attack lettuce, eggplants, peas and beets. Use kerosene emulsion or tobacco water.

The parsley worm attacks celery, carrots and parsley. Hand picking is the best for the small garden.

The squash vine borer attacks stems of cucumbers, squash and melons. Cover the first joint of the vine with earth.

TIME TO SOW CLOVER SEED

Work Should Be Done in Spring and Not Too Deeply—Broadcast and Follow With Harrow.

(By A. C. ARNY, Assistant Agriculturist, Minnesota Agricultural College.)

Clover should invariably be sown in the spring, and, under normal conditions, comparatively early.

Broadcasting the seed and following with a harrow has been frequently advised, and is successful in Minnesota during wet seasons and on heavy soils; but is often unsatisfactory in dry seasons and on light soils. Clover should not be sown too deeply, and yet it is desirable to sow it sufficiently deep that it will neither blow out nor dry out easily. Under most conditions, either using the grass-seed attachment to the drill or mixing the seed with the grain is to be recommended. Excellent stands of grass have been obtained by mixing the red clover with the grain and sowing the balance of the grass-seed mixture broadcast. If grass seed is mixed with a drill, the drill should not be run more than from one to two inches deep.

The amount of seed per acre will vary slightly with the method of seeding and the purity and germinating power of the seed. It is believed that in general too little, rather than too much, seed is sown. If clover is sown separately, it should be at the rate of from eight to ten pounds of red or mammoth, from four to six of alsike, and from three to four of white clover.

SCHEME FOR MARKING SHEEP

By Series of Notches Any Numbers Desired for Farm Flock May Be Easily Obtained.

Notching is a good way to mark sheep, and it is quite frequently used. Notches upon certain parts of the ears indicate certain numbers, the sum of the numbers represented by the notches being the number of the sheep. By a series of notches any numbers desired for the farm flock can be obtained. Numbers up in the hundreds involve a rather complicated system, but these are not usually nec-

One day Jock made the mistake of hinting to his mother that she was beginning to show her years a little. The following conversation then took place:

MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

People of Prominence In The Pearl City of The Penny-royal.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 26.

Popular Business Man Who Has Made Success In The Sale of Pianos.

J. W. Lawson was born in Delaware county, Indiana, near the city of Muncie, and at the age of 21 years started on the road as traveling salesman. He commenced traveling for a big Cincinnati music house. He proved to be a born drummer and his work soon attracted attention throughout the territory he covered

J. W. LAWSON.

In a few years he joined the sales force of the well known Harding & Miller Music Co., of Evansville, Ind., and was soon made city manager of their store at Terre Haute, Ind. Later he was transferred to Bowling Green, Ky., as manager of the company's store there. He proved his worth wherever sent and soon worked his way into the front ranks of the company's representatives. In January 1896 the company decided to maintain a permanent agency here and Mr. Lawson was sent to Hopkinsville to be territory manager, and has held this position ever since.

Mr. Lawson has been very successful in his line of business and has done a great volume of business for his company. He is a practical man and knows everything there is to know about pianos. He is honest and reliable in his business methods and has made a reputation that has brought customers that stay with him. Mr. Lawson has prospered as his company has expanded and his residence of 18 years in the city has made him a typical Hopkinsville booster, and always a potent factor in the material interests of the city of his adoption.

Few people realize how widespread is the love of music and how great is the constantly growing demand for pianos. In buying a musical instrument it is very important to deal with an agent who can be relied upon to merit the confidence of the uninformed as well as the experienced buyer. That Mr. Lawson has stood the test all these years, and has sold hundreds of pianos all over this territory, is a testimony to his character as a business man that speaks in clarion tones. The people know him and have learned to revere confidence in him. Personally he is alert and wide-awake, courteous and accommodating, and has many friends who have never been his patrons but appreciate his substantial worth as a man and his usefulness as a citizen.

Mr. Lawson is identified with the Odd Fellows and Woodmen of the World orders. He has a family, including an accomplished daughter, Miss Marguerite Lawson, who is quite well known to the music-loving public, as the former pianist at the Princess Theatre.

A Master of Spit Ball Pitching.

In the July American Magazine "Eddie" Collins of the Philadelphia

Athletics, whom "Johnny" McGraw of the New York Giants calls the greatest baseball player in the world, writes a most interesting article entitled "Pitchers I Have Faced." Collins is one of the greatest batters in the business, and his article is full of stories of personal experiences with the best pitchers. Following is part of what he has to say about "Eddie" Walsh whom he regards as the best spit ball pitcher:

"Walsh is the only real master of the spit ball I know of. He was the first absolutely to perfect and control it. Most spit-ball pitchers are wild; and they have trouble especially to make their spitter a strike, and usually have to resort to the fast one, but not Walsh! Many times I have seen him give a batter three balls and no strikes, and then three spitters would go swishing across the plate knee high, and the batter would sit down. Walsh invariably aims his spitter at one spot on a batter, namely between the waist and the knees. I have never seen a good spitter that broke above the waist."

"Walsh was not a pitcher I dreaded to hit against, because it was never a battle of wits. You always knew what to look for—the spitter. It was sure to be in the same place—waist to shoe tops, and it was not like the spitters of some pitchers, at your head one minute and at your feet the next. In spite of this it was mighty hard to hit safely. Although there was almost a foot break on Walsh's spit ball, Sullivan, who always caught him, said he could do it sitting in a rocking chair, his control was so perfect."

Remarkable sun "cures" of tuber-
